Project Brief:

Urban Decay – A website where user can post pictures of their urban adventures, get reviews on how safe a place is to explore and create journeys for users that would not want to risk themselves in that type of environment. This would be a photo heavy site with the most popular users stories running on the front page.